

The new photos, including many from Bagram, Afganistan, where the detention facilities are expected to double to hold close to 1200, will show that torture was widespread, sustained and systematic, not an “aberration” but an integral part of the global war of terror on the people.

Weeks ago four torture memos revealed the sadistic detail with which Bush’s lawyers choreographed the torture of detainees. Calls to prosecute those responsible have met objections from Washington. Cheney and the open advocates of torture scream that they must be able to use “harsh methods” to win their global war of terror.

The Obama Administration, which is continuing indefinite detention, CIA rendition, Bush’s executive powers, and denying Bagram detainees the right to challenge their detention, says prosecution of torturers would stop them from “moving forward.” Democratic party leader Nancy Pelosi knew about the torture as early as 2002, but said and did nothing to stop it.

It’s up to the people to act! World Can’t Wait and other groups are planning non-violent civil resistance protests, programs digging into the substance of the charges, waterboarding and rendition re-enactments, and film showings in communities around the country to demand prosecution of the Bush era war criminals.

More information, listings, posters, flyers & background on the war criminals at warcriminalswatch.org.

Actions in Atlanta, Cambridge, Chicago, Honolulu, Los Angeles, NYC, San Francisco Bay, Seattle.

ORGANIZE YOURS NOW.

.....
MORE INFORMATION AT
warcriminalswatch.org • worldcantwait.org
866.973.4463

The new photos, including many from Bagram, Afganistan, where the detention facilities are expected to double to hold close to 1200, will show that torture was widespread, sustained and systematic, not an “aberration” but an integral part of the global war of terror on the people.

Weeks ago four torture memos revealed the sadistic detail with which Bush’s lawyers choreographed the torture of detainees. Calls to prosecute those responsible have met objections from Washington. Cheney and the open advocates of torture scream that they must be able to use “harsh methods” to win their global war of terror.

The Obama Administration, which is continuing indefinite detention, CIA rendition, Bush’s executive powers, and denying Bagram detainees the right to challenge their detention, says prosecution of torturers would stop them from “moving forward.” Democratic party leader Nancy Pelosi knew about the torture as early as 2002, but said and did nothing to stop it.

It’s up to the people to act! World Can’t Wait and other groups are planning non-violent civil resistance protests, programs digging into the substance of the charges, waterboarding and rendition re-enactments, and film showings in communities around the country to demand prosecution of the Bush era war criminals.

More information, listings, posters, flyers & background on the war criminals at warcriminalswatch.org.

Actions in Atlanta, Cambridge, Chicago, Honolulu, Los Angeles, NYC, San Francisco Bay, Seattle.

ORGANIZE YOURS NOW.

.....
MORE INFORMATION AT
warcriminalswatch.org • worldcantwait.org
866.973.4463